If the SMALL ENTITY is shown as YES, verify your current SMALL ENTITY status:

A. If the status is the same, pay the TOTAL FEE(S) DUE shown above.

B. If the status above is to be removed, check box 5b on Part B - Fee(s) Transmittal and pay the PUBLICATION FEE (if required) and twice the amount of the ISSUE FEE shown above, or

Notification Regarding Prosecution Laches

Applicant is hereby notified that the next filing of a Request for Continued Examination (RCE) under 35 CFR 1.114 may result in a rejection by invoking the equitable doctrine of laches, absent any action by applicant to advance this application to final issuance as a patent. See Ex parte Hull, 191 USPQ 157, 160 [USPTO Bd. of Apps.] 1975.

The doctrine of laches, meaning undue delay in claiming one's rights, may result in the loss of those rights. In this case, the right lost may be the right to a patent. The instant application was filed on November 21, 1997. Subsequently, applicant has filed eighteen RCEs, seventeen of which were each followed by a Notice of Allowance from the Examiner. The submission requirement for sixteen of the RCEs has been met by the filing of an Information Disclosure Statement (IDS) alone. The claims have not been substantively amended since 2010, in response to a non-final office action. A review of the prior art submitted with the RCEs, particularly the last eight RCEs filed since 2010, shows that the information provided is merely cumulative to information already submitted in the application file, and that in fact many of the documents do not qualify as prior art against the instant application under any section of 35 U.S.C. 102. The Office notes that the applicant is apparently aware that products or articles embodying the subject matter disclosed in the application are being developed and exploited commercially in the marketplace. See, for example, the following references, all of whom do not qualify as prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102:

- Non-Patent Literature document to Mueller entitled “Corrugated Diaphragm Shear Panel” in the IDS submitted 07/06/2011;
- Non-Patent Literature document to Elgaaly et al. entitled “Steel Plate Shear Walls” in the IDS submitted 07/06/2011;
- Non-Patent Literature document to Elgaaly entitled “Analysis of Thin-Steel-Plate Shear Walls” in the IDS submitted 07/06/2011;
- JP (54087616) in the IDS submitted 11/02/2011; and
- Non-Patent Literature document to Chen entitled “Handbook of Structural Engineering” in the IDS submitted 09/04/2012.

This pattern of repetitive filings suggests undue and unreasonable delay in prosecution.

The Federal Circuit has affirmed a rejection of claims in a patent application on the ground that applicant had forfeited his right to a patent under the doctrine of prosecution history laches for unreasonable and undue delay in prosecution. In re Bogese, 303 F.3d 1362, 1369, 64 USPQ2d 1448, 1453 (Fed. Cir. 2002)
